Analyzing the document object of the International Search Report, we have to comment on the following:

PCT/BR05/00018:

It is a Locating System developed to work in 3 Dimensions (length, height and width), coloured or in white and black, which and according to the case, is introduced, applied or installed in an electronic equipment (computer, GPS, cellular telephone, DVD, among other) and respective media, being used at places where it is needed to locate in real time and in an autonomous way (without the aid of other devices), starting from a pre-determined point (A = where the person who is making the search is located), to locate another point (B = wanted place or item), using an instantaneous menu of search and a search of the place of the user's interest, in several searching categories, to which he/she will be virtually directed using the system in 3D. So that the electronic equipment is activated, any means of introduction of data can be used (voice, mouse, keyboard, track-ball, touch-screen, working through buttons or another means that comes to be developed for that purpose). It allows and makes possible to join promoting mechanisms that use audiovisual resources, just as an object in movement or another.

IT SUPPLIES IMAGES IN 3 DIMENSIONS.

Respectfully
